

Literary Liaisons

On the way to the restaurant, begin to read aloud the book you chose. Since the books are correspondences, mostly between two people, you can each take a character. Or have one person read it all, changing voices for the characters.

2

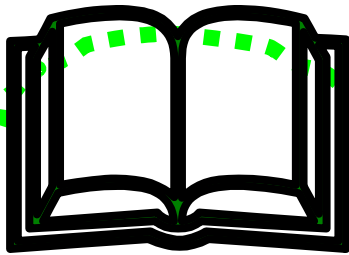

At the ethnic restaurant, order drinks (or have your bottle opened if it's BYOB) and order a minimum of 6 appetizers... and no entrees. Ask the waiter for suggestions or translations if necessary. Order the most exotic items you can. Be adventuresome!

3

While waiting for your food, get real close to one another so you can hear... and continue to read the story aloud. Use your voice to seduce and romance your partner. Being read to is very sexy! Embody the characters. Let them come alive.

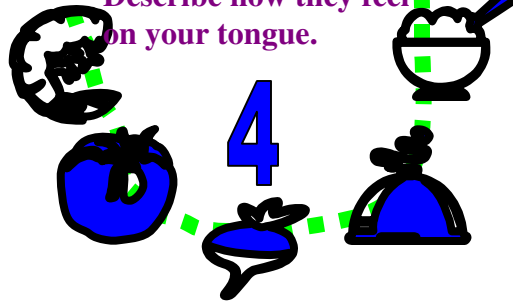

5

Take a break and leisurely read some more.

When the food arrives, revel in the orgy of a feast at your table. Feed one another the first bite. Use your fingers if you like. Savor the new smells, textures and tastes. Describe how they feel on your tongue.

4

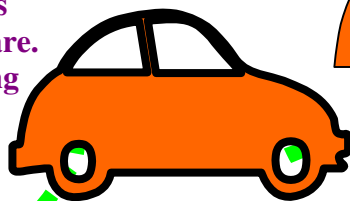

6

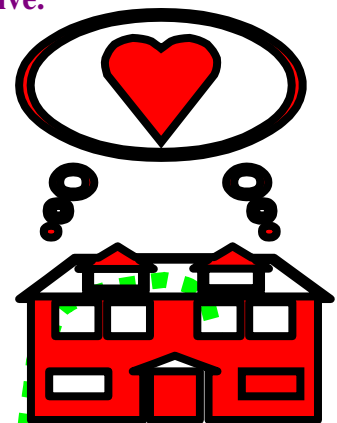

Finish your food. And order 2 local desserts and beverages to share. Continue to be daring in your selections.

7

On your way home, continue reading... but don't finish the book... stop at a suspenseful or lustful moment...

8

Once at home, create your own romantic ending to the story. Let the characters come alive within you. Have fun!

In your afterglow, snuggle up and quietly read until you get to the end of the book... Return to your real personalities